Dear Mr. Weisberg,

I am writing to you because of my interest in the assassination of President Kennedy and the countless mysteries surrounding it. I have read many books on the subject in the past 20 odd years but, unfortunately I have not yet found one of yours. I have seen you on film in various documentaries and have come across your name many times in the course of my studies.

For me, this is a deeply troubling matter for reasons I am unable to fully understand. I was only 10 years old when the President was killed but as an adult I became interested in the subject and I have never gotten over it. I have a wife and family and a good career but I am still tortured everyday by this problem. It feels like if I read enough books or articles or if I see enough programs I'll finally make sense of this all or maybe even stumble across an important detail that could shed some light on things. Everywhere I go, something reminds me of the assassination, be it a wooden stockade fence, mention of anything such as a rifle, gun shot, trajectory, not to mention Ross Perot of Dallas. I took my kids to see "The Great Mouse Detective" a Walt Disney animated movie, thinking I might temporarily get the assassination out of my mind, although just the act of going to a movie theatre paints a mental picture of the capture of Lee Harvey Oswald. So in this harmless children's movie, the hero fires a gun into several pillows, then retrieves the bullet to inspect it under a microscope! Well there I sit, probably the only person in the place thinking "CE 399".

I'm sorry this is so wordy. Please let me know how I could obtain a copy of your books. Honestly, I would be tickled to death to get a reply from you. I greatly admire the work you and others have done. I will look forward to hearing from you. Thank you for your attention to this letter.

Sincerely,
~~Dan Sutton~~
